Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 5/22/2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Domic et al. . Domic et al, in the embodiment of figure 1 and at col. 3 line 46 to col. 4 line 66 for example, teach a method and apparatus for counter current solvent extraction including three counter current reactors contacting two stripping stages for extraction of either copper or nickel values (see col. 4 lines 60-64 for example) and where the instantly recited compounds can be employed as the solvent extraction reagents (see col. 4 lines 55-61 for example) thereby showing all aspects of the above claims except the use of only a single stripping stage, although Domic et al never requires any specific number of stripping stages past stating that more stripping stages (eloution stages in Domic et al) allow for more complete recovery. However, the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made because it has been well settled that elimination of an element in an apparatus or a step in a process along with the element's or step's function, would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made. See MPEP 2144.04 II A. In the instant case, elimination of all but one stripping stage in Domic et al, where lower copper value recovery rates are acceptable, would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either of Lower or Pang. Both of Lower the embodiment of figure 1 for example) and Pang (the embodiment of figure 1 for example) teach a method and apparatus for the counter current solvent extraction of copper values comprising at least 3 counter current extraction stages, a wash, or filter stage and a strip stage, thereby showing all aspects of the above claims except the use of only a single stripping stage and three extraction stages, although both Lower and Pang never require any specific number of stripping or extraction stages and broadly include arrangements with only a single stripping stage and three extraction stages. However, the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made because it has been well settled that elimination of an element in an apparatus or a step in a process along with the element's or step's function, would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made. See MPEP 2144.04 II A. In the instant case, elimination of all but one stripping stage and three extraction stages in either of Pang or Lower, where lower copper value recovery rates are acceptable, would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 26-32 are allowed .

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on 5/22/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's argument that each of the applied references teach the use of more than a single stripping stage is not persuasive because as stated previously, none of the cited references require any specific number of stripping stages and their broad disclosures include arrangements with only a single stripping stage.
